(On With Laughter)

The Rockefeller Foundation announces that sleeping sickness can be cured. Yes, easily, by moving into the modern apartment house.

Every now and then the average wife meets a hatchet-faced woman she'd just love to have her husband live with for a while and get what was coming to him.

"Have you seen my fiance, cook?"
"No ma'am, but it's probably at the wash, as I sent all yer 'undies!"

"It always makes me glad to see a woman acting silly over a poodle."
"Why?"
"Because it shows what a bad bringing up some lucky baby escaped."

"Father has given you the door, you must not see me any more."
The maiden cried in fright.
"I won't," she heard the youth remark.
"I cannot see you in the dark, so I'll turn out the light."

Foreman—"Pat, you had no right to touch that wire. Didn't you know you might have been killed by the shock?"
Pat—"Sure, I felt it carefully before I took hold of it."

Scientists say they know the moon has nothing to do with rain fall and old people say they know better.

"She was a manicurist in a barber shop and wanted to get ahead." Well, most of 'em need one.

"Fish can live in hot water!" says a university professor. Sure they can. Many a poor fish of a husband never gets out of it.

When the average man expresses his gratitude it is merely a way of asking for more.

An ounce of operation costs more than a pound of cure.

Be true to your teeth or they'll be false to you.

Little Joan—"What do the angels do in heaven, mummy?"
Mother—"They sing and play harps."
Little Joan—"Haven't they any radios?"

Gentleman Jim was polite to the last. He offered his chair to the warden when he was about to be electrocuted.

The blonde isn't really dumb. She just acts that way because she knows men like to feel superior.

The question of the hour is, "What time is it?"

Landlord Blues.

And any patron with new gotten pelt May buy and run the shack to suit himself.

Someone once said that two heads were better than one. The source of that remark evidently never attended a motion picture show.

Prominent Jew Defends Jesus Against Attack Of Christian Minister

Dr. S. M. Melamed, famous Jewish scholar and editor, comes to the defense of Jesus in a leading article published in The Reflex, a new magazine devoted to the secular interests of the Jewish people.

Dr. Melamed upholds Jesus against an attack by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Christian Community Church of New York City.

Dr. Holmes, a Christian minister, said in a recent sermon that the "light of the future will have nothing to do with Jesus. It will have no use for the Bible or for any church. It will be based on truth only, truth as found by man and not as revealed by God."

Dr. Melamed says that Dr. Holmes is a Philistine and a false prophet.

"As Jews, we have no attitude to Jesus. No Jew has unless he is a Jesus Rabbi," says this Jewish scholar, "but as contemporaries of Dr. Holmes, we have our own thoughts about the incarnation of the Christian myth. Jesus achieved what no other mortal ever has or ever will achieve. He became the central figure of the world's history, the very embodiment of anti-Caesar. Anti-Caesar became the son of God. There are many anti-Caesars to-day. There were many anti-Caesars, one, two, or 500 years ago, but Jesus of Nazareth, the humble Jew, was the first anti-Caesar in history. As a reward, he was elevated to the position of the Son of God—the highest reward ever received by a mortal for a great mortal feat. The reward killed Jesus for the Jews. He is not acceptable to us and never will be. Jewish monotheism rejects not only doctrines but even symbols liable to decloud its purity.

"The Son of God is a blot upon Jewish monotheism. But the fact that Jesus is not acceptable to the Jews does not warrant a Christian Minister's attempt to relegate him to religious mummydom."

"Because Jesus was the greatest example of pure religion without any admixture of ethics and politics, he impressed himself so deeply upon the shivering souls of a world tortured by Caesar that he became Christ," continues Dr. Melamed.

"Since nobody claims that the Bible is a book of science, its proposed rejection on the ground that it doesn't contain science is a display of Babbitism," Dr. Melamed concludes. "While the Bible is not a book of science, it is a book of truth, not the relative truth as found by man but eternal truth as discovered by genius, by man who thought in terms of eternity, whose power of intuition enabled the eye to guess the beginning and visualize the end of all things."

The Rev. Dr. Holmes is making the mistake of all the gnostics through the ages, claims Dr. Melamed. The Bible will retain its hold on the mind of man. In fact, he writes, "Science today differs vastly from the science of one thousand years ago. He who believes that science is the incarnation of the constant and permanent in the flight of phenomena is unscientific."

When Premier Stanley Baldwin was travelling through the Maritime Provinces over the lines of the Canadian National Railways he evinced keen interest in all matters concerning transportation. At Truro, N.S., Mr. Baldwin asked D. A. McKay, Car Inspector, "Did you examine the wheels of my car?" Yes sir. They are all right," answered the Inspector. Mr. Baldwin then asked a number of questions about the work of Inspectors, remarking that in England they were called "car tappers," and noting the longer hammer used in Canada. "Yours is a responsible work," commented Mr. Baldwin as the train drew out.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS HELP A PRIZE WINNER

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for little ones. From the newborn babe to the growing child they are an absolute safeguard to health. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Thousands of mothers always keep them on hand.

Among the mothers who state that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones that they know of is Mrs. Russell Hill, of Norwood, Ont. Her experience with the Tablets should be of great benefit to any mother who has not already given the Tablets a trial. Mrs. Hill says:—"I have five fine healthy children, and from the youngest to the oldest they get no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets. When our baby girl was eleven months old she won second prize at the Norwood Fair, and when she was a year older she won first prize in competition with twenty-eight other babies. It was the Tablets that gave her the health and development to carry off these prizes. I always delight in telling other mothers what the Tablets have done for my children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Albania Employs Veteran Fighter

British Soldier of Fortune Remodeling Army

Scutari, Albania.—The "Albanian question" is now largely in the hands of Gen. Sir Jocelyn Percy, a veteran of the South African war, of several Indian expeditions, and of the great war.

Gen. Percy came here to reorganize the gendarmery and was appointed by Ahmed Bey Zogu to command the military and civil administrations of all Albania north of the Matir River. He expects to pacify the turbulent region of the Malisore tribes and thus put a stop to the continual agitation along the frontier between Albania and Yugoslavia.

Gen. Percy's policy is that of the "square deal."

"The tribesmen of the region under my command," he says, "can come to me and pour out their grievances with confidence that they will be heard and dealt with fairly."

Gen. Percy, after leaving the British Army as major general in 1919, went to South Russia with a British mission attached to Gen. Donikine's army. He was later with Gen. Wrangell in the Crimea. He enjoyed three years of rest and quiet on a ranch in British Columbia. Desiring active life, he put on the harness again in November last and undertook the task of reforming and reorganizing the Albanian gendarmery.

Mount Everest 1924 Attempt Finds a Critic in Austria

The Fight for Everest, 1924," has been translated into German, and Dr. C. Lammer, a noted Austrian mountaineer, steps forward with a criticism of that attempt to scale the famous peak—an effort that resulted in the death of George H. Leigh-Mallory and A. C. Irvine.

Dr. Lammer attributes the tragedy (whether or not they attained the summit remains a matter of conjecture) to Leigh-Mallory's choice of Mr. Irvine, rather than of a more experienced member of the expedition, as his climbing partner and to his decision to use oxygen.

"Why," the critic asks, "did he select this 22-year-old athlete and oarsman, who had accomplished no mountaineering expeditions worthy of mention and was suffering from throat trouble? * * * There was available the highly experienced Odell, who had brilliantly passed the altitude test. Mr. Leigh-Mallory was anxious, so as to make certain of a result this time, to use oxygen and needed Irvine's mechanical knowledge; also Irvine believed in the magic of oxygen, although Odell had obtained no relief from its use."

Replying to this criticism, E. L. Strutt and D. W. Freshfield point out, in the most recent Alpine Journal, that it was not until later that N. E. Odell "brilliantly passed the altitude test," and that Irvine's throat trouble was no worse than that of other members of the expedition.

"Nevertheless," they conclude, "there are few mountaineers who will not agree, in theory at any rate, with Dr. Lammer's stern reasoning. Many of us, including those who know the mountain, are inclined to believe that Mallory and Odell would have achieved the summit and returned. But on Everest the last word must and always will be with the leader on the spot. It is rash, however tempting, for those who are at a distance to challenge that leader's decisions. It is extremely easy to be wise after the event."

"The wonder metal of the age" is a fitting term for Aluminum. Its lightness, brightness, freedom from rust, and many other good qualities, make it a container par excellence for good tea—Red Rose Tea is packed only in this modern metal package.

It is hoped that the new wave-lengths will be permanent.

GIRLHOOD DANGERS

Come Through a Weakening of the Blood—A Tonic is Needed.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time. It is when the strength is sapped by rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by pre-visibility, lassitude and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation become apparent, with low spirits and depression.

Neglected anaemia often leads to a decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched, there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood-builder ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will build up your girl's health and ensure for her healthy womanhood. In proof of this Mrs. George Justason, Black's Harbor, N.B., says:—"I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a wonderful medicine. My daughter, Margaret, was in such a badly run down condition that we feared she was going into a decline. Her face was pale, the least exertion would leave her breathless and she suffered from headaches. She had no appetite and lost in weight. Up to the time we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, no treatment had helped her. But thanks to the use of this wonderful medicine she is again well and strong, showing no signs of the trouble that had so weakened her."

In all troubles due to weak, watery blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found a reliable remedy. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Changing Times Changing Methods

New Orientation of the British View of the "Danger Spot"

According to the Herald Tribune's dispatches from London the British government is actively debating the proposal to transfer the main "striking force" of the British Army from England to India. There are reports of the Russians massing their divisions across the northwest frontier and flinging a strategic railway into Afghanistan. The feeling which has been strong in Europe ever since the Anglo-Russian break that Russia constitutes the most unstable element in present world politics appears to be growing, and the alert are picking up new hints of war. It is believed that the British government is proposing to reduce the Indian army—the force of native and British troops under control of the Viceroy which at present garrisons the country—and create in India a powerfully equipped force of British and even dominion troops under direct control of the War Office at London as the principal defensive effort of the British Empire.

If this belief is correct it need not, of course, mean that a war between Russia and Great Britain over the Afghan frontier is about to take place. But it would be interesting as one more example of how the old strategic lines are changing. Shortly after 1900 the British government called home its warships to the North Sea and settled down to the naval competition with Germany which was to end in the World War. Through those years it was no longer a question of pushing the Empire upon its borders, but of defending it at its very centre. The next war would be across the North Sea and the army would fight in Flanders if not upon home territory. But after Versailles the wheel turned again. The British battle fleet was based in the Mediterranean, for the German menace was gone. The naval base was built at Singapore, and now if the Empire be regarded as a whole in the changed world of to-day it might easily seem logical to concentrate its military defence in India, close to Turkey and the Near East to Mesopotamia and oil, close to China and Australia. The "Shanghai defence force," which had to be started so long before any actual need for it was proved, because it took so long to get from Southampton to the Yangtze, must have given British strategists a good deal to think of.

Consequently, a transfer of the British army to India might not mean war with Russia any more than the transfer of our battle fleet to the Pacific meant war with Japan. But it would show where the new interests lie. The "armed camp" psychology is passing from western Europe; at home the new Air Force is promising to protect England from invasion (and perhaps by that very fact laying more emphasis on the possibility of invasion than conditions would warrant), but Flanders is not now the indicated battlefield. For the time being the clash of interests is heard at greater distances and Europe drifts back again toward the days when Mr. Kipling was discussing the bear that walked like a man, when amateur statesmen described a world war about to take place in Manchuria, or chancelleries buzzed as a youthful Emperor took an interest in the murder of a couple of his missionaries in the Shantung Peninsula.

Its fine qualities preserved in the modern Aluminum package.

27,000 Americans Kiss Blarney Stone

Cork, Ireland.—More than 27,000 American tourists have kissed the famous Blarney Stone this year.

The curators of Blarney Castle are considering limiting the number of "kissing visitors" in the future because of the danger, they point out, that the kissers must climb to the wall and then be lowered down head first, with another person holding on to the feet, and that should the hold relax, a serious fall might result.

The Blarney Stone is gradually wearing away, partly by the action of the elements and partly by the damage done by tourists in their effort to kiss the stone. Its potency, however, according to the common belief, remains the same. This has been described by one Irish writer in the following words:

"The touch of Blarney Stone creates smooth and graceful lips of the first magnitude with a sweet, persuasive tongue with women, full of guile, blandishment and potent flattery."

It won't be so long now before a popular transatlantic expression may be, "Oh, say, can you see the floating landing stage?"

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as it was the change of life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I could hardly move. I got very sad at times and thought I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success. Also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicines, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. EMMA WILSON, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.
